

El Enriquecer™ Dual Language Program Planning Retreat

Hosted by:

Dual Language Education of New Mexico (DLeNM)
February 8-9, 2018
Albuquerque, NM

DLeNM's El Enriquecer™ is a two-day self-evaluation planning retreat designed for leadership teams from existing dual language programs to reflect on their current foundations, structures, and practices in order to identify next steps.

Facilitators guide dual language leadership teams through the process of action planning to strengthen and improve specific areas of program implementation based on the Guiding Principles for Dual Language Education. The new 3rd edition of this book is available on our website!

The goal is for school teams to leave El Enriquecer™ with a clear idea of where their program is with respect to best practices and the next steps they need to take in fostering continuous improvement and sustainability of their program. Participants will have the opportunity to study a number of concrete examples and tools for immediate use back at the school site.

El Enriquecer™ Program Planning Retreats include:

- A review and recommitment by your leadership team to dual language essentials, the foundational basis and knowledge of program research, effective design, and important non-negotiables.
- Reflection and self-assessment of current practices in relation to The Guiding Principles for Dual Language Education.
- A review and refinement of key documents that define the purpose and structure of the program.
- Reflection on the program's current sheltering strategies, collaboration opportunities, program assessments, and professional learning strategies.
- A closer look at leveraging community support in the promotion and advocacy of your program.
- Opportunities for in-depth discussions, guidance from experts, and examples from other effective programs.
- Deliberate action planning to nurture the continued growth toward program excellence.

Cost: $4200 per school team (6-8 participants)
