I'm a Plant

By Diana Pinkston-Stewart and Ruth Kriteaman

I'm a plant, strong and tall,
On a stem, so I don't fall.
My roots go deep into the soil,
Sometimes they're straight, sometimes they coil.

I'm a plant, I'm a plant.

Up through the roots, water and nutrients go,
Through the stem to the leaves they flow.
They make their own food using light and air,
Doing photosynthesis without a care.

I'm a plant, I'm a plant.
